

The morning table

GOOD COFFEE. FRESH LEMONS. NOWHERE TO RUSH.

Notice the small things.

A cup still warm from the first pour. The scent of lemon peel.

Soft shadows moving across the grain of a wooden table.

Some mornings are better measured in moments than minutes.

Bring the feeling home.

A few things worth remembering from a day by the sea.

LIGHT

Find the softer hours.

Early light keeps the scene gentle and the details clear.

TEXTURE

Leave room for imperfection.

Weathered wood, woven seats and well-loved ceramics.

COLOUR

Keep the palette simple.

Sea blue, warm stone, olive green and a touch of clay.
